Game Show Host:

“Welcome all to the world’s most dubious, wild, raunchy, and spiciest dating show: The Greatest Shakespeare Off!!!!!!

Tonight we are visited by a most valuable cast, one I’m sure you have all seen before. For that purpose, to make matters interesting, they’ve hidden behind a curtain, ready to answer your questions.

Might our guests introduce themselves?

Guests introduce themselves—

Good! Now we move onto the first phase of the game. You may ask three questions all of our guests will answer.

Afterwards, you’ll pick your favorite, the one you desire most and spend the rest of the night on a date, where they shall decide whether they wanna be with you.

With no further ado, let the games begin!

Questions

What's your occupation?

Goneril

“I’m the eldest daughter of the king of Britain.

Going to be the queen. Looking for a man to stand beside me... or behind me.”

Hamlet

“Just a student; A senior at Wittenberg. It’s a shame I haven’t seen you around though, would have made classes less boring.”

Isabella

“I’m practicing to be a nun in the Order of Saint Clare.

I hope to fully join by the end of the year.”

Iago:

“I’m in the military. I can’t say much else but let’s just say it’s important. I might tell you later tonight.”

Bassanio

“Ex-soldier, ex-scholar, now I’m just having fun.

You can slide if you want.”

Rosalind

“Fleeing my country and looking for a long term situationship this vacay.”

Where are you from?

Goneril

“I’m a pure blood British royal living it up in the most ostentatious, luxurious castle. We have a lot of spare beds, dear.”

Hamlet

“Amidst this world’s vilest wards and dungeons, I live in its worst prison, Denmark. It sucks but perhaps you can make it heaven.”

Isabella

“In a nunnery.”

Iago

“Currently in Venice but I have been all over the world and still haven’t seen your bed, love.”

Bassanio

“Venice! The biggest party city in the world and I’m looking for a fine shyt to party by my side.”

Rosalind

“I’m hiding in the woods... It’s a nice place though, I love the natural lighting and the greenery. Many fun hideouts to explore.”

Do you have hobbies?

Goneril

“I have a thing for rare fragrances. I collect vials with all kinds of oils, some deadly alluring. The aroma

Hamlet

“The uses of this world all feel so stale and flat to me. Everything grows to be a bore.”

Isabella

“My sole devotion is prayer to our lord and savior, Jesus Christ. He is the only man I’m on my knees for.”

Iago

“I adore the banter of a crowded night in the tavern. My fellows are bound to do no good on such a day. Trouble tends to follow them, quite entertaining trouble.”

Bassanio

“I have many hobbies, and you could be one of them. But, besides you, I do love hitting the town with my buddies, a good ol’wrestle would never hurt nobody, and of course I enjoy cracking open a couple brewskys with my most inner circle.”

Rosalind

“I love diving into a good book, especially poetry. A former lover of mine made sure that I’d be awakened to an ocean of romantic poems covering the forest’s bark.”

Describe yourself with one word.

Goneril

“Powerful, exemplary, a diva, the fairest, hottest, richest woman in Britain. I could go on though.”

Hamlet

“I’m naught but a rogue and peasant slave.”

Isabella

“Pure.”

Iago

“My friends call me honest but I prefer the term ambitious...”

Bassanio

“I’m an alpha, bro.”

Rosalind

“Articulate. That’s my favorite word, by the way.”

What’s your dream date?

Goneril

“We have a private dinner with exotic spices, a couple glasses of wine and a long night ahead of us.”

Hamlet

“Let’s watch a play and go on a late night stroll. Plays are my favorite way to lay people bare. They can be quite revealing.”

Isabella

“Attending church service. Brushing hands if we’re daring.”

Iago

“I bring you along for one of my work trips. Picture it: a private boat, two glasses of scotch, and the open sea.”

Bassanio

“A wild masquerade party with no one to keep track of the mischief behind the mask and the sheets.”

Rosalind

“A forest picnic. I bring the bottle, you bring the log.. I mean logs....

What’s your ideal partner?

Goneril

“Submissive, easily manipulated charmers who obey me at my beck and call.”

Hamlet

“A person who I can trust above all else. Such trait is rare in modern society”

Isabella

“A frequent church goer. Strong morals and piety are also good.”

Iago

“A good listener who is non-opinionated and soft spoken. A pretty face couldn’t hurt.”

Bassanio

“A rich fellow who doesn’t hide their looks and knows how to have a good time.”

Rosalind

“Gentle, goofy, respectable folk who can totally win a fight when needed to.”

What's the most important thing in your life?

Goneril

“Bending people to my will, including you”

Hamlet

“I cannot reveal it at this time but it’s a commandment that has wiped off all other matters within my mind, one I abide by my sword to follow.

Isabella

“The keys to my chastity belt”

Iago

“My work. As anyone can tell, I am the most fit to gain ranks, especially with you by my side.”

Bassanio

“A potential influx of finances, specifically in my direction.. If you catch my drift ;)"

Rosalind

“Freedom, the ability to do as I please with whomever I choose.”

...and the following day, I am off to the beach.

Questions are over! It's time to Pick

Your

DATE!!!!!!

Choose the person you want to spend the rest of the night with:

-player chooses

Is that your final choice?

-player confirms and selects a character. The game branches into 6 different paths, one for each character. The player has to seduce a character now (each question gives or loses points). If the player has 30 points by the end of the romance segment they manage to date the character, otherwise they are dumped.

Each character will ask 5 questions with three possible answers each (+10 to -10 points)

//////////////////////////////

So this is who you've chosen...

It's time for the big reveal!!!

Goneril

A young woman walks around the curtain head held high, nose prominent yet in a unique but intense beauty. Her eyes lock onto you in a sharply manor, power radiating over her yet intrigue glistening.

"I suppose I'm supposed to introduce myself, I'm Goneril, future ruler of Britain. You chose me obviously, so now I get to choose you." Her eyes daring you to speak against her words.

Questions 1 -

"If given the opportunity, what would you do when faced with the choice of choosing me over another, let's just say another person held high at court?"

A: I would pick the future ruler of Britain - So you obviously ;) (+10)

B: It depends, what's in it for me? Would there be potentially a future ruler at your side? (+5)

C: If they were more attractive, then my eyes might slide to the next... (-10)

Response

A: Right choice, I better be the first in your eyes always

B: Hmm, I do admire your hunger for power, maybe just maybe...

C: A pigeon brain like yours wouldn't be able to keep up with myself even if you tried

"I see some potential in you, but I can't guarantee you anything. I have demands that must be met. So let's see if you can continue to meet them or fail to no one's surprise."

Question 2 -

“If I were to tell you I’m currently in a marriage while still gracing you with my presence where would your mind stray?

A: I must know more about this other lover who may take you away from me (0)

B: Why would you betray another who already loves you? I find that repulsive (-5)

C: I like a woman who can play the board a little, but once you pick me I know you’ll be satisfied. (+5)

response

A: Don’t fret, they will not be in the picture much longer

B: I don’t have to respond to you, I make my choices and don’t have to defend myself

C: I like your thinking, the power I hold filled of secrets would blow your mind

“If you can’t get onboard with my chess game I have at play, you will be left behind a crumpled mess pushed off my board.”

Question 3 -

“I had.. I mean I have a large family but a tragedy struck when a bottle of poison slipped into my sister’s wine glass, and my father passed due to the death of another sister and my powerful binding choices I made as a sacrifice to save myself. I’ve been through a lot and I deserve the power to, I mean the opportunity to feel loved by another.. what say you?”

A: I say you’re out of your mind and need to go seek some help (-10)

B: Who needs a whole family when you’d have me? (0)

C: I find that quite attractive, you stride for ambition, that’s the type of woman I need (+10)

Response -

A: How dare you! you better watch what you drink, I might just let a little something slip...

B: Hmm I see your point, but I do love being admired by them

C: Glad we’re on the same page.. Could be good for my future (if you last that long)

You’re giving me a lot to think about, I might need to hear more from you before I can trust you to have you enter my castle.

Question 4 -

“When I say I like control, does that scare you away? Or tug you closer to my side?

A: I don’t know, you in control doesn’t scare me, but I don’t see myself running towards it (0)

B: I run from woman in control, I believe I have to be in control never the other way around (-10)

C: I wouldn’t mind the idea of you in control, i could use someone telling me what to do (+5)

Responses -

A: Run towards me is the best choice and you should know it

B: You should be scared, who are you to think you'd be in control, I have the money and the power

C: That's the right answer, good to see you thinking the right way

"I have one final question for you, answer it right and who knows maybe you'll get to take me out to the most lavish restaurant in Britain."

Question 5 -

"I have a lot of potential others who have piqued my interest, what makes you worthy of my time?"

A: "How do I know you're worth my time? I'm hot stuff you know, you're lucky to speak to me

B: I'm nice, I can listen, I love women who have money (so I don't have to buy anything), and I have a few party tricks up my sleeve

C: I can easily bend to your wants and needs, I'll listen to you without complaining, I can offer all the time in the world to you, what else could you want from a partner?

Response -

A: You're crazy, anyone in my presence should be counting the stars with how lucky they are to be around me, I can have you thrown out for speaking to me that way (-5)

B: Hmm a nice guy isn't awful but don't think I'll spoil you, it will always be the other way around, I don't have time for the poor (0)

C: You know exactly what I like to hear, you're a good smooth talker, I like that about you (+5)

You win:

"Congratulations, I find myself tempted to welcome you into my presence and speak to me again. I'm ready to be wined and dined with the finest wine there is, I have a specialist coming to my castle to show me the finest poisons."

You lose:

"I would thank you for your time, but you just wasted mine. I wish to never see you again, and if I do you better watch what you drink... You're lucky to have spent this time with me, I'll easily find another who actually has something to offer."

Since you won your date! (lucky you), You'll join Goneril at her castle concocting her most famous poisons and perfumes, with a private chef at your beckoning call. Better follow her or otherwise you may be left behind...

You answered below her interest level, I must ask you to leave and say your goodbyes (if she'll give you any more time of hers..)

Hamlet

A young man leaves the curtains. His face is handsome and yet weary; his eyes are particularly tired, darkly adorned by eyebags.

He gazes at the audience paranoically until his eyes turn to you. His mouth turns into a coy smile as he greets you.

“It’s a pleasure to meet you. The name is Hamlet.”

“I suppose it’s time for me to understand whether or not it’s worth it for me to ally myself to your person.”

Question 1 -

“Are you in any way affiliated to the current king of Denmark?” His eyes tighten as he waits for your answer.

A: King Claudius? I would never affiliate myself with that geezer. (+10)

B: Denmark?? I have never heard of her. (-10)

C: I don’t know what you are talking about, the only things I want to affiliate myself with are your pants haha. (+5)

Response 1-

A: “He is a wretch. Our temperaments align in that matter.” His smile feels more trusting than it was before.

B: “You are obviously lying. There is a kind of confession in your looks which your modesties have not craft enough to color.”

C: “Your response is much too avoidant for my liking. Still, there is some value in your words, despite their bashfulness…

Question 2 -

“Wait.”

“Do you hear it? The cries of my father? His bellowing voice demanding revenge?”

“Swear by my sword! You won’t tell anyone about what you hear tonight, right? You hear the voice right??”

A: The ghost of your father? I see... I’ll swear, just stop screaming. (+0)

B: Oh, I’ll touch your sword alright. (+10)

C: What voice? (-10)

Response 2-

A: You doubt me? I vow to you that this apparition is real. You can rest easy as you swear, I promise.

B: Good, it is done. Rest, rest, perturbèd spirit, they have sworn.

“I express my love toward thy gesture.”

C: “Swear! You hear it do you not? It resounds so strongly over our stage...”

“I apologize for the outburst. This is a pressing matter and there are too many eyes watching us at the moment.”

Hamlet approaches you, leaning his face toward your ears. He whispers.

Question 3-

“The truth is I’m pretending to be crazy. My uncle mustn’t know I plan on killing him!”

“My father’s ghost has told me he was poisoned by my uncle! I must take revenge!!”

“And for that reason, you need to go along with this. As I pretend to be crazy on the game show, I’ll lead the cronies of the court astray! I’m just pretending! Trust me!”

A: I’m calling the cops. (+0)

B: Oh so you are not actually crazy, you are just pretending to be crazy because your dead dad’s ghost has told you that your uncle killed him and now you need to avenge him... That makes perfect sense! (+10)

C: So you’re crazy and hot, the night couldn’t get better. (-5)

Response 3-

A: “No! We can’t let them know about Claudius’ plan yet. Call them after I figure out more about it.”

B: “Yeah, that’s it!”

C: “I’m just pretending! I’m not crazy!!!”

“Let’s head back to the show. Remember, pretend I’m crazy. I’ll play along with this game’s folly.”

Question 4-

“So... You come here often?” Hamlet tries to play along to the show and fails miserably. He looks at you expecting a reply.

A: No. (-5)

B: Yeah, going to dating shows is something I do on a regular basis. (+0)

C: Hamlet, doubt thou the stars are fire, doubt that the sun doth move, doubt truth to be a liar, but never doubt I love. (+10)

Response 4-

A: “Oh, I see.” He looks down to the ground.

B: “Huh, didn’t peg you as the type.”

C: “I am smitten! Your words ignite a fire within my heart.”

Question 5-

“This dating show thing has been fun and all but there is one question that holds most valuable.”

“My one chief task, the only one I must take, one I have engraved upon my mind above all else must be accomplished. Will you help me or stand in my way?”

A: Let's kill that old man. (+10)

B: Dude killing people is not cool. You are sick in the head, this is not what you should be doing. Hamlet you need a psychologist. (-10)

C: Don't make me a part of this. We can still kiss though. (+5)

Response 5-

A: “You get it! Let's do it!!”

B: “So you really don't believe me...? I guess this will never work out...”

C: “Your neutral non-chalant approach toward this matter is not wholly unpleasant to me.”

“I have made my choice. I know whether or not you shall come with me to Denmark tonight.”

You Win:

“I have grown fond of you. Your smile, your humour, your trust upon mine vengeance, they shall propel me forward. Let us move toward Denmark posthaste!”

Hamlet holds your hand as the two of you run out of the show. Soon enough the two of you take a boat toward Denmark.

Throughout the journey you spend long, frisky nights together on the boat. Some pirates hijack the trip and they join in on the fun. It was an amazing pleasure filled ride.

When you get to Denmark, Hamlet finds out his ex is dead and the mood immediately plummets. The whole thing devolves into a brawl between Hamlet and the ex' brother in a court audience with the king.

Hamlet and the brother stab themselves, the queen dies from poison and you find out king Claudius had plotted all of this.

Before dying, Hamlet performs a beautiful soliloquy and kisses you in the mouth. Tragic. At least you got to kill the king.

You Lose:

“You have proven to be most untrustworthy.”

Hamlet brandishes his sword. It glistens through the show's lighting, He glares at you with a threatening scowl.

“Leave now or I shall treat you as an enemy. We should not meet ever again.”

Hamlet seriosity preemptively empties the show. No one desires to see him having a mental breakdown and you soon quit it too.

You live the rest of your days in the same manner you had ever done. Your meeting with Hamlet was but a fleeting moment in your life, one you would rather forget. Later on, you read about a bloodbath that happened in Denmark. Hamlet and many others have died in a tragic accident. Perhaps it was good that you never started dating him. Tragedy would have soon taken you too.

CODE DONE UP TO HERE AS OF 11/2/2025 01:26 AM

I lied, it's 2:31 Am and I'm done with isabella (mostly... she needs expressions)

Isabella

The curtain draws to reveal a younger woman dressed head to toe in a black nun outfit, white outlining her face as an undergarment. Her eyes shine bright as her defining feature standing out in contrast to the black that wraps around her. Her face is more serious with a slight upturn of her lips, as she greets you for the first time..

“Hello, I’m Isabella. It’s nice to put face to the voice I’ve been listening to. I do have a couple questions to ask you to see if we’d be a good fit. One thing you must know is that I cherish honesty and moral integrity, with that being said...”

Question 1 -

“I hold dear to me my sense of honor and nobility, have you ever gone against your own honor/beliefs for someone you loved? I once was asked to do so and my opinion on them was changed.

A: “I’m sorry that was asked of you, and yes I have had someone ask the same. I followed my beliefs and honor and stayed true to myself.” (+5)

B: “If I loved them enough I would, I mean my sense of honor isn’t above those I love” (0)

C: “It would have to depend on what’s asked of me, but honestly that’s too deep of a question and I’m not going to reveal something like that to you.” (-5)

Response

A: “Thank you, yes it was a challenge but I overcame it. I like the sense of honor and believing in yourself to be who you are rather than change for another.. Wondering if you’d ever change for me though?”

B: “What if it was something that ran deeper than you’d want? Something that would change you for good? Not a bad answer but not an amazing one either.”

C: “It’s deep but important. If you can’t answer honestly, I don’t think we’ll see eye to eye...”

“Well, that was a good look into who you are, I feel like I just scratched the surface and definitely want to know more about your thoughts.. and a few other things ;)

Question 2 -

“How much is physical attraction necessary for you? Say if passion was second in line to integrity and chastity?

A: “If they aren’t up to my standards, goodbye! (-10)

B: “I mean beauty can’t hurt, but the respect one must hold to look within and strive for their moral compass is a good quality to have” (+5)

C: “Physical attraction is surface level, what matters is what they have within. If they pride themselves on their moral compass and chastity and continue to hold true to themselves that is all I’d want.” (+10)

Response

A: “Oh, so say then this person you love deeply and has all your dream qualities yet isn’t up to your standards, you’d send them away? How unfortunate, it must be hard being alone all the time then..”

B: “True beauty is easily appreciated but one’s respect for themselves is clearly more important, at least you can try and understand.”

C: “wow, your honesty is mesmerizing me”

“I’m glad we can get a few of my more serious questions out of the way, now to ask you some more meaningful questions. Remember all I ask is honesty from you.”

Question 3 -

“How thin is your line in perception of sin vs. passion?... Asking for a friend of course!”

A: “Good question, that line will be extremely thick and passion will clearly stay on one side and sin will stay far away from my soul and body.” (+5)

B: “There is no line, and that line will be crossed without a second thought.” (-10)

C: “There of course is a line, but if I were given the keys to your chastity belt.. things could get a smidge hazy.” (+10)

Response -

A: “I’m glad you understand the line and give space for said line. So there’s no way around that thick line you just drew?”

B: “I see, you don’t exactly fit my thoughts on this line.”

C: “Your candor is appreciated, I will take that into consideration.. ;)”

“I will have to say, you have to keep this between us of course but if you continue to or start answering my questions correctly, you’d have the keys to my chastity (It’s not gonna be locked for that long.. potentially)”

Question 4 -

“Do you have any siblings, if so how far would you go for them? Would you go against them?”

A: "I do have a sibling, and I would go pretty far for them as long as I stay within reach of my morals which I stand strong for." (+10)

B: "I would go kinda far, but honestly I'd rather just let them solve things for themselves, love them but it can be a lot." (0)

C: "I don't have any siblings, and if I did I'd only look out for myself honestly." (-5)

Responses -

A: "hmm I find myself agreeing with you, glad we can agree and stay on the same page.. my keys are getting closer to being yours."

B: "I can understand what you're saying, they should try and figure it out themselves, but sometimes you must lean on those around you or those above in the heavens.."

C: "So an only child, if that wasn't obvious before it certainly is now, quite self centered if I must say."

"I have one final question for you, I feel like I've slowly started to open your doors and see within. I must say I've learned a lot and maybe just maybe you'll get lucky and we can spend a lovely evening walking the gardens outside my church."

Question 5 -

"When you think of taking me out, where would you take me? (are the keys with us potentially?)

A: "I would have to take you to this tavern that I love! The music is insane, the vibe inside is immaculate, and you might for once find yourself letting loose." (-10)

B: "Hmm I have this spot I like to go to when I'm thinking, no one's ever been there before, you'd be the first girl I'd take there.." (-5)

C: "I know these beautiful statues we can look at near a church you may love, and we can end the evening sharing a delicious meal with a view of the surrounding mountains. It will be a slight walk from the church so we can keep things away from any moral issues." (+10)

Responses -

A: "Unfortunately I would have to disagree with that idea, sounds like my kind of nightmare."

B: "At least you're trying to make me feel special. Though how can I believe you?"

C: "That sounds like quite a lovely evening, I can easily see this working."

You answered enough questions correctly to peak Isabell's interest! "I'm really happy we are going to speak, I'd love you to accompany me to these lovely gardens where we can continue to discuss our morals and beliefs."

Unfortunately Isabelle does not see this as a match. "Thank you for your time, but I don't see us working out. I have more standards in myself than I'd trust to be around you, I think you could use a little growth before we'd even begin to work out."

Iago

An older man with a tall and muscular build. He wears his long hair in a clean and sophisticated bun. His face is constantly in an etiquette yet question manner, as if constantly thinking of his next move. A clean attire and almost completely shaven face, with a sharp mustache and goatee framing his jaw. The clothes loosely fit his frame while still allowing others to see his strength, garnished with a delicate flower.

Question 1: "Would you stand by my side no matter what?"

- A: Of course, you always stand with those you love. (+10).
- B: Depends on what it is. (-10)
- C: Only if you stand by mine. (0)

- A: Good, smart answer.
- B: You seem too hesitant, I don't like that.
- C: You're clever, maybe too clever.

Question 2: "Are people still good, if they commit heinous acts for good reasons?"

- A: Only if those acts are equivalent to what they are against. (0)
- B: No, people are only good if they become the bigger person. (-10)
- C: If someone wrongs you, then you have the right to get them back. (+10)

- A: That is all up to opinion, is not.
- B: That mindset is weak.
- C: A true leader's understanding.

Question 3: "Do you think love is about connection, or control?"

- A: It is always about connection, if you are controlling them, then that isn't real love. (-10)
- B: If you control them in a matter that helps them, then I say that it is both. (0)
- C: If you can't control them, then they don't trust you, and a relationship is all about trust. (+10)

- A: What do you truly know about love then?
- B: I am a very helpful man.
- C: Exactly, if you trust me, then let me lead.

Question 4: "How much of yourself would you give up, if it meant you would be chosen?"

- A: I wouldn't give anything about myself up, if I did, then who would I even be. (0)
- B: Everything, I want to be seen. (-10)
- C: Only what I can live without. (+10)

A: Dire circumstances cause dire sacrifices.

B: Weakness isn't cute.

C: I like that you can wage for power.

Question 5: "When people look at me, they see a man who's simple. Do you fall for people's images or what lies beneath?"

A: I never fall for either as someone's true character will always shine through in the end.

(-10)

B: Those who fall for someone's image, are right where they belong. (+10)

C: I try to look past their faces, but sometimes I can become stuck. (0)

A: You are very confident, aren't you?

B: I can tell you have a lot of layers to yourself.

C: Just like a fly in honey.

Bassanio

A tall man, with a muscular build. Not too many thoughts behind his eyes, but a spark of fiery life. A 24/7 smirk lies across his face as he stands shirtless, showing off his best assets. His brown messy hair lays across his face, framing just enough, so you can never see the full picture.

Question 1: "Would you still love me if I lost my 6-pack?"

A: Absolutely not, your personality means more than abs ever could. (- 10)

B: Lowkey... Yeah. (0)

C: Trick question, you'll never lose your abs. (+ 10)

A: Ahhh, I love that... not.

B: Understandable, me too.

C: Ding Ding, you are smart as you are pretty.

Question 2: "Wouldst thou be impressed if my horse were, how do you say, metaphorical?"

A: Soooo, you're broke. (0)

B: Wouldst thou care if I then became a Harlet? (- 10)

C: Nah, I got daddy's money. (+ 10)

A: They say money doesn't buy you happiness, and they are hitting that from every angle, because I'm happy as shit.

B: Um, duh... whore.

C: You mean, we got daddy's money.

Question 3: "Lets say you have to hypothetically be a third wheel all the time with my boy Antonio and I, you cool with that?"

- A: As long as all your attention isn't on him. (- 10)
- B: The more the merrier. (0)
- C: Why third wheel, you two can just hangout and have fun all the time! (+ 10)

A: cough cough center of attention much (or needy bitch) cough cough

B: Eh okay, you can tag along

C: As we should

Question 4: "Are you familiar with the courting process?"

- A: I am not a common courter. (0)
- B: Yes, many men try to court me. (- 10)
- C: You seem like you are. (+ 10)

A: I see, so is it by choice or...

B: You look the type for that.

C: You callin me hot ;)

Question 5: "Do you think we'd argue over real stuff, or pretend to hate each other for tension?"

- A: That all depends on if we truly love each other. (0)
- B: Duh, real arguments are dumb. (-10)
- C: Both, the only right answer. (+ 10)

A: Woah there, that's a little deep don't ya think.

B: You're a problem.

C: See, you get it.

Rosalind

"So I am your final choice? A wise one but I'm not about to give myself to you easily."

"Turn around."

Her voice is forceful. She waits to see you turn the other way. As you do so, you hear the sound of clothes being shuffled frantically.

A new voice can be heard from the same direction. It's similar to the girl's voice but much deeper, gruffer.

Turning around, you can see a boyish man. His attire hides most of his body. His face is adorned by shining auburn hair. He smiles confidently at you.

Question 1-

"My name is Ganymede. I am an acquaintance of the girl you desire to court."

“I’ll be testing to see if you are worthy to attain her hand.”

A: This is too much work. There’s no way I’m doing this for a girl I haven’t even met.

(-10)

B: Ohh okay that’s fun, I’ll play along I guess. (+5)

C: You are so hot... Let’s make out. (+10)

Response 1-

A: “I see you are not willing to pursue a

B: “Good! I’ll teach you everything you need to know about love.”

C: “No!!! You are supposed to wanna make out with the girl, not me!” Ganymede’s cheeks blush. It doesn’t seem like he entirely dislikes the idea.

“It is an unusual situation but I am here for one reason and one reason only, to understand whether you truly are in love or not.”

Question 2-

“Love is merely a madness, and, I tell you, deserves as well a dark house and a whip as madmen do; and the reason why they are not so punished and cured is that the lunacy is so ordinary that the whippers are in love too.”

“I profess we may cure it by counsel. I have cured one person before through pretending to be his mistress, that’s what I’ll do to you.”

“From now on call me Rosalind. That’s the name of the woman you desire. Act with me in the same manner you would act with her.”

A: I really don’t think my love for you can be cured. My fair Rosalind, this love will last until the end of time. (+10)

B: Okay... So I’ll call you Rosalind. Wanna make out now? (+5)

C: Can’t we just be done with this and move on to the part where I meet the real Rosalind? (-5)

Response 2-

A: “That’s so cheesy!!”

Ganymede is clearly blushing.

B: “Wait!! I’m not the real Rosalind, remember? I like your passion but don’t kiss me yet!”

C: “But I am the real Rosalind! Consider me her.”

Question 3-

“Come on! Show some enthusiasm. Woo me, woo me! What would you say to me now if I were your very, very Rosalind?”

A: I would kiss before I spoke. (+5)

B: Recite bad poetry. (+10)

C: Rosalind you are so pretty haha (+0)

Response 3-

A: "Nay, you were better to speak first, and when you were gravelled for lack of matter, you might take occasion to kiss. For lovers lacking—God warn us—matter, the cleanliest shift is to kiss."

B: "Your enthusiasm is noted... I do enjoy poetry from time to time, even when there are more feet than the verses could bear."

C: "Wait, really?

No! Compliment my personality before my appearance!

"This really isn't working out as intended..."

Question 4-

"Enough! I'll reveal who I am."

Ganymede takes off his boyish clothes. He, or she, takes a wholly different appearance, with a humble woman's outfit and a face still androgynous but much tender.

"I have been your suitor all along. I'm Rosalind."

A: So I'm not leaving this place kissing a hot twink? Disappointing... (+0)

B: Woahh you are even better than Ganymede. (+5)

C: Wait, you were lying to me so you could test if I was a good match??? Not cool, not cool. (-10)

Response 4-

A: "Wait, wait! I still have the costume, don't leave yet!"

B: "I sure do hope so!"

C: "It's not that bad!! Come on..."

Question 5-

"I vow to you you won't regret this, I have found you to be an interesting suitor but one question holds most importance."

"I believe in what I said earlier. Love is madness. Why should we court each other when love is only appearance, lasts much less than forever, and won't ever hold true?"

A: We are both attracted to each other, we want to make this work. Is that not more than enough? (+10)

B: I'll give you as much money and power as you need. You'll never have to worry about that ever again! (-10)

C: I don't really care about that, I just wanna make out with you while you are dressed up as a dude. (+0)

Response 5-

A: "Perhaps they are."

B: "I don't care about those. They only corrupt human nature."

C: "You know what? Fair enough."

"This is it. I know what I shall do with you."

You Win

"You have a certain charm about you. Your flirtness, your jokes, they entertain me and I can't say I don't find you attractive."

"Run away with me! Come to the forest of Arden! We can live a nice happy life away from the troubles of society and the dude who wants to kill me!"

You say yes with no doubt in your mind. Rosalind and you move to the forest where you pretend to be simple pastors.

Her dad gives the blessing to your marriage and you spend the rest of your life living in a cozy cottage in the middle of the woods alongside Rosalind. What a beautiful end!

You Lose

"You're dumped. Sorry, but we just didn't really have any chemistry together."

"Don't worry! Love isn't real anyways so it's fine that this happened, it only means you get to go after someone else like all of the other beautiful people that were in this show."

"As for me, I gotta run away! My uncle wants to kill me so I need to hide in the forest!"

You never see Rosalind again. Apparently, as she hid in the forest her uncle converted to Christianity and decided to give her father back the throne. She became rich, married a hot dude, and never had any problem in her life.

You can't say you are not jealous but unfortunately, there's nothing you can do.
